proves incontrovertibly the capacity of the region represented, which embraces more than two-thirds of the State; that the section contributing is so early with its products that it does not practically come into market conflict with any other; that though we have now the severest season ever known in the modern history of the State, it has not impaired our ability to produce semi-tropical fruits.

The fair will also serve to illustrate vividly the wonderful extent of the progress made in the cultivation of citrus fruits since the time—only a half dozen years ago—attention was given to the industry for commercial purposes. Prior to that time the orange and the lemon were grown for ornament only, the energies of the people being absorbed in agriculture, mining, manufacturing, or the prosecution of the business of growing, shipping and curing of deciduous fruits.

There can be no question whatever that the people of the central and northern sections have not more than just entered upon the business of growing oranges, lemons, olives and figs; they are but upon the threshold of these important industries that it has been demonstrated can be engaged in all this region under better conditions than elsewhere in the State. We trust that the people will go to Oroville in great numbers; that they will come down from the mountains to witness the first of the State Citrus Fair; that the towns and cities will send multitudes, and that all the strangers within our gates will be persuaded to attend one or more days while the fair is in progress. The present long period of bad weather has operated somewhat to check some industries, and has created something of a temporary stringency in finances; but there is, in fact, no reason to expect the enforced idleness of out-door labor for a few weeks, for any feeling of discouragement. There is as much money as ever in the country, and the commercial and trade interests are unimpaired. The disposition to borrow trouble and look upon the dark side still lower is one wholly unpardonable, and there is no reason for it in this year in California. The people who would go to the citrus fair at any time are as able to go now as they ever have been.

The duty of Sacramento to attend reaches beyond the value of citrus culture to this market. The fair is held in the heart of the trade area of the city, and good business sense dictates that we should make our presence felt at the fair to encourage not only citrus fruit growing, but to meet the people whose business is contributory to our commercial prosperity. Sacramento frequently invites the north and center to come to her board and they always respond with alacrity. Let us not forget, therefore, the duty we owe to return the favor. Besides, the fair is that of Sacramento as much as of any other county; it is a State institution, and its jurisdiction is limited only by the bounds of a single Congressional district, in the south, where the second State citrus fair is to be held some time later, and to which we trust the people of the State will in numbers worthy of the cause of citrus fruit culture.

COUNTY AFFAIRS.

The Supervisors Open the Monthly Session—Mr. Ross the New President.

The Board of Supervisors met yesterday morning, with President Tebbets in the chair. Present—Supervisors Greer, Bess, Black, Coleman and Ed. R. Hamilton. A communication was received from Hale & Baughman, of Indian Diggins, El Dorado county, asking that the injunction placed by Sacramento county on their mine be raised. They claimed that they could carry on their mining without emptying the debris into the tributaries of streams running through the county, and would do so.

Supervisor Greer said he was not in favor of raising any of the injunctions placed on the different mines by Sacramento county. He would not like to set a precedent by doing so.

After some argument it was agreed to lay the matter before Messrs. Devlin and Deason, the attorneys for the county in the debris cases.

Supervisor Ross reported that he had ordered signs painted and placed on the McCabe bridge over the Cosumnes river, and would see that similar ones be posted on the Michigan Bar bridge. The prohibition of fast driving over the structures was the object sought.

Communications were received from Joseph Heide and N. V. MacFarland, stating that they had accepted $100 and $250, respectively, for damages and rights of way in the matter of a petition for a new road in District No. 3.

After considerable debate L. P. Gilman was allowed $8.75 for an over-assessment on lot 5, in the block bounded by L and M, Fourth and Fifth streets.

Assessor Frost stated that the assessment on the property was altogether too high, and recommended that the Board reduce the overcharge.

J. D. Bigelow, who owns property in the vicinity of Brighton Junction, stated to the Board that his land was assessed at $100 per acre, while that of neighbors adjoining was assessed at $20. He wanted to know the reason of the discrimination.

Supervisor Greer said that the land should not be made of one and a half of another. The land in the neighborhood was about equal in value, and it was not right that Mr. Bigelow be made to pay 40 per cent. more taxes on his land than his neighbors paid on theirs.

Deputy Assessor McManis tried to explain the discrepancy, but it was found that the property was not assessed at all last year.

"You're getting off easy," remarked Chairman Tebbets.

"That explains it," said the Deputy Assessor. "We assessed him for two years and let the land at $20 an acre."

"You did," exclaimed Supervisor Greer, "and why didn't you double up on his neighbors, Mr. Devlin and Mr. Deason? They were not assessed last year, either. You charged them $80 for the two years, and Mr. Bigelow $100. How does this come?"

This did not have the effect of throwing any light on the subject, and the matter was referred to the District Attorney for a written opinion as to whether the Board, meeting as Supervisors, could right the wrong, or whether it would have to come before the Board while they were in session as a Board of Equalization.

A. B. Davis, E. A. Grant and other property owners residing near Mount Vista Colony appeared before the Board in an endeavor to get a decision as to who should build a certain fence on Grant's property so that a road could be run through the land. Grant's property adjoins that of Davis, and it was claimed that the latter would be benefited to a greater extent than Grant.

The discussion on the matter consumed nearly an hour, and at last a vote was agreed, with the assistance of a man who lived on the Grant place and a recompense of $25 from the county, to build the fence. The motion being carried, and Chairman Tebbets stated that the Board had better elect their new Chairman before taking a recess.

Supervisors Greer and Bates opposed the idea and wanted to wait until afternoon. Ross and Black sided with the Chairman, and the election was ordered.

Supervisor Black was called to the Chair, and ex-Chairman Tebbets placed in nomination for the county year. He then thanked the members for the honor conferred upon him.

The Board then took a recess until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

At the afternoon session Mr. Greer offered a resolution providing that the County Treasurer should prepare the semi-annual financial statement required by law to be published, and that the Chairman of the Printing Committee should cause the same to be published in not more than one newspaper in the county.

Mr. Bates moved to amend the resolution by making the number of newspapers two, instead of one. Lost. Ayes—Tebbetts and Ross; noes—Bates, Black and Greer. The resolution was then adopted.
